GreenStreet Solutions Total Home Performance Review
Tips for getting your house ready for the Winter months

CINCINNATI, OH (October 2011) – GreenStreet Solutions has been helping homeowners in Cleveland for several years and now they doing the same In Greater Cincinnati. “Every homeowner has the power to reduce the amount of energy a home uses and contribute to a greener earth, and it is easier than you think. However, you have to know what to look for,” says Jim DeLong Vice President of Sales. GreenStreet Solutions’ comprehensive “Total Home Performance Review” will determine the necessary updates to improve the home’s energy safety, comfort, and efficiency. The Review is conducted by a team of BPI certified professionals who evaluate the entire home as an integrated system, search for potential problems and recommend effective solutions, as well as offer the all-embracing service of implementing the improvements.

What separates the GreenStreet Total Home Performance Review from others in the market is that the company is not motivated to recommend a particular product or service. Instead, they make recommendations based on the information gathered during the analysis of the home and where a customer can realize the greatest value. “What was most attractive to me was that after they recommend improvements and we decided what we could invest in, they took care of getting estimates from a few companies and were there at the house ... I knew I needed to make improvements but without GreenStreet's comprehensive approach I would not have the time to take action,” says <we need a consumer to claim this quote>.

A GreenStreet Solutions Total Home Performance Review starts at $250. The GreenStreet Solutions' Total Home Performance Review team is hired locally and is certified by the Building Performance Institute (BPI). The Cincinnati/Dayton office is managed by William Bailey and is located at 876 Lebanon Street, Cincinnati, Ohio 45050. William can be reached at 888-476-2010.
